Arizona Silver Belt.

Thursday, October 3, 1878.

The Pope has ordered Catholic Bishops in Mexico to abstain from participation in political contests.

The Republicans in Nevada have nominated John H. Kibb for Governor and R. M. Daggett for Congress.

Benito Baca is the Democratic nominee for Delegate to Congress in New Mexico. Mariano S. Otero is the Republican choice for the same position.

We understand that $240,000 was pooled in San Francisco recently, and an offer of that amount was made for 60,000 shares of the McMillen stock. The offer was not accepted.

A Southern Pacific Railroad official declares that the road of that Company will be built to Maricopa Wells by January 1, 1878. This we do hope will prove to be a true prophecy.

Congressman Blackburn, of Kentucky, has predicted that there will be four candidates in the field for the next Presidency. The Radical Republicans, he says, will be led by Grant, the Conservatives of that party by another, the Greenbackers and Nationals by Ben Butler, and the Democracy by Senator Thurman.

C. I. Filley, Postmaster at St. Louis, has been removed by the President. Samuel Hays succeeded to the position. Both are Republicans, and it is questionable whether the Senate will confirm Hays, for the reason that Filley was a good Postmaster, an earnest and efficient partisan, and a recognized leader of the party in Missouri.

THE BELT is now the only paper published in Pinal county. The Citizen having been removed to Tucson, Pima county. Those having legal advertisements will do well to note the fact. Where a co-owner in a mine fails to contribute his portion of work or money, in order to divest him of title, personal notice in writing or notice of publication in the news paper nearest the claim for ninety days is necessary. Notice of intention to apply for a patent must also be published in a newspaper nearest to the claim for sixty days.

A Deposed Bishop.

Thirty-one of the sixty-two bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States met in New York, and deposed Samuel Allen McCoskry, Bishop of Michigan, from the ministry. Dr. McCoskry had been a bishop for forty-two years, having been consecrated in 1836. He entered the Military Academy at West Point when a lad, designing to become a soldier, but he went away at the end of a year, and began to study theology. He is a man of remarkably fine physique, being more than six feet in height, and weighing nearly three hundred pounds. He is seventy-four years of age, but looks twenty years younger.

Bishop Onderdonk, of New York, was deposed in 1845, for "loving not wisely, but too well." His brother, Bishop of Pennsylvania, was suspended the year previous, in consequence of habits of intemperance, though subsequently restored, he kept from public view.

McCoskry did not face his judges, but skinned for Europe, where he now is, a disgraced and disowned priest.

Fanny Richards, now Mrs. Bannister, is a petit brunette, about twenty years of age.

Across The Belt.

To the westward of the Casket lode and the trail which passes it to the Silver Belle, there are two claims, whose ledges show very good prospects for mines. On the Orion there is a 14-foot shaft, showing a well defined ledge of carbonate ore, of which there is about five tons on the dump; and where there is another opening, the ledge which runs parallel with the first is two feet wide, of apparently good ore. The south-west extension of the Orion is the Hatie, with a 25-foot shaft on a well defined lode of milling ore from three to four feet wide.

The country about here, from the surface formation being mostly of a soft variety of syenite, consists of low, rounded hills and level valleys, thickly covered with grass and scrub. The ledges are generally visible on the surface, and their are a number of claims on them with openings of various depths, showing the lodes to be well defined and from three to six feet wide. The ores, as shown on the various dumps, are generally carbonate, carrying considerable galena, but seldom more than $100 in silver.

About a mile and a half up the trail from Pinal creek is the Silver Belle mine, which is now being worked by three parties from San Francisco. On the claim there is a shaft sunk 40 feet on a rich strata which runs into the main ledge, and from that and various other openings made upon it there has been taken several tons of good ore, some of which was smelted at the Wheatfields furnace returning $250 per ton. They are now at work running a tunnel to cut the main ledge, having got in 75 feet, and there is good prospect that the lessees will with development have a good paying mine.

To the westward of this, though there is a number of ledges and claims which look well, there is little beyond assessment work done on them.

About 2,000 feet northeast from the Silver Belle shaft is the Excelsior S. M. Co.'s claim. There are several ledges which run through it. The largest of which and some very rich surface ore, with a gouge of brown spar, common to a number of the ledges about here. The Company sunk a shaft about 100 feet deep on the ledge, which carried small bunches of ore and showed smooth, well defined walls; water coming in faster than they could handle it, although the indications for finding a body of ore were very promising. They started another shaft, which got down about 80 feet, when the promoters of the Company, having sold all their stock, decided putting up any more of the money received for shares, reasoning, no doubt, that it was much better in their pockets than being spent in the development of a mine in which they had very little interest. So things lie idle, until the stockholders can be induced to pay an assessment—about 10 per cent. of which will likely be spent on the mine, the balance going where the woodbine twine.

The next claim northeast is the Red Rover, with a strong ledge which has yielded some very rich ore. There is a 35-foot shaft at one point, and at another they have gone down 40 feet and drilled 30 feet to tap a parallel ledge.

The next claim on this group of ledges is the Morning Star, which has a 50-foot shaft on it. Some very rich ore was taken from it, and from a quantity reduced at the Miami mill, the returns were $154 per ton.

From Picket Post.

PICKET POST, PINAL COUNTY, September 29, 1878.

Editor of the Silver Belt:

A stabbing affray occurred here last evening between James Bartley and James Murphy. Murphy is lying in a critical condition from wounds, while Bartley was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Gabriel. At the preliminary examination before Justice Van Namee, this afternoon, Bartley was acquitted. Goodwin and Hughson for the defendant, the Territory not represented.

Both mills at this place are running on full time, and turning out a large amount of concentrations.

Benson & Stone's new mill will be ready to run in about three weeks.

E. L. B. Goodwin and P. A. Brown, candidates for the Territorial Council, addressed the voters of this place last night. Both made very good speeches.

A. E. Davis, candidate for Delegate to Congress, speaks here Monday night next.

There is considerable building going on here at present. Everything looks encouraging for the future of Picket Post. E. PINKHORN.

For County Supervisor.

The following correspondence explains itself:

Globe, Sept. 24, 1878.

John H. Hise.—SIR: We, the undersigned citizens of Pinal county, solicit you to become a candidate for the office of Supervisor of Pinal county, Arizona, at the coming election. Trusting a favorable response, we subscribe our names in the confident expectation of your election:

J. L. Bachelder, Frank Bissig, J. H. Eaton, A. D. Skinner, A. Hall, J. B. Hitchcock, C. K. Prather, G. L. Crane, Jas. Wiley, D. Larre, F. W. Westmeyer, A. Baughman, J. B. Nichols, S. R. B. Lacy, E. A. Saxe, J. W. Haskin, C. M. Shannon, Chas. DeLartige, A. Owston, Morrill, Kellner & Co., G. S. VanWagonen, Knox & McNelly, Geo. Scott.

GLOBE, Sept. 30, 1878.

Messrs. Bachelder, Haskins, Hitchcock, Wilson, Medier, and others.

GENTLEMEN: Your call asking me to become a candidate for Supervisor of Pinal county received to-day. Believing that the office should seek the man and not the man the office, and also that no citizen has a right to refuse a public position if called upon by the legal voters, I have agreed to become a candidate for said office, and I promise, if elected, to do my duty toward the interests of our county and my constituents.

Respectfully, yours, J. H. HISE.

The Oregon Legislature is in session. John Whitaker, of Lane county, was elected President of the Senate; G. Simpson, of Marion, was appointed Secretary. In the House, J. M. Thompson, of Lane county, was elected Speaker; W. L. White was elected Clerk. After the permanent organization, both bodies met in the hall of the House of Representatives to canvass the vote for Governor, which was, as follows: Thayer (D), 16,201; Beckman (R), 16,142; Wilkins (G), 1,533.
